Annapolis Artist Cindy Berry Sullivan: A Mover and A Shaker

Brown Mustache Coffee

Artist Cindy Berry Sullivan on Exhibit

June, 2018 through July, 2018

All cafe patrons know that great things can happen over a cup of tea or coffee. While you are making those things happen, I hope you enjoy the company of some of my artwork this June and July!

The work in this exhibit range from original oil pastel drawings to Annapolis inspired digital artwork. Both the original drawings and the digital artwork will be available for sale.

Artist Statement:

There is an energy I hope to convey in my paintings and drawings that I imagine is similar to the energy musicians hope to convey to their listeners. Much of my work is created with a soundtrack for the piece as inspiration and many of my digital works are created during live music performances (many at local live music performances in Annapolis).

Each painting is begun with an urge to physically interpret the visual and the emotional through the materiality of paint, oil pastels or even the moving stylus of an Apple pencil!

Each mark on the canvas, whether controlled or accidental, is met with a countermove based on the outcome.

Though born with a hand tremor I have learned to use my hand movement FOR me to support my expressive style and intuitive use of color.

I hope the work "moves" you!
